LINDY HOPS FOR ST. THOMAS

Today
Marriage a School.
Sam and the Latins.
Earrings or Trousers?
50 Is Young.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE
(The opinions expressed in this column are strictly those of Mr. Brisbane and not necessarily in consonance with the policies of The Review-Tribune.)

DR. M. S. TAYLOR wires from Chicago: "Contribute your opinion on legalizing companionable marriage. I am to debate with Judge Lindsey in Orchestra Hall, Clarence Darrow presiding.

That question was settled when Eve appeared from Adam's rib. Woman is naturally monogamous, is determined to make man so, will do it eventually, and marriage is the school of monogamy.

A COMPANIONATE marriage expresses doubt, proves lack of the confidence on which marriage should be based, and while it is perfectly legal now, divorce being legal, it is a poor, cold-blooded sort of marriage.

FORTUNATELY, the average young couple have no doubts whatever, and only regret the marriage cannot last a million years, just to prove it.

Sometimes they are disappointed, nearly always through the husband's fault. But meanwhile, the children have been born, blessed with the influence of trust and affection.

THE value of a man depends on the respect of his father and his mother for each other.

If husband and wife start marriage in doubt, each leaving the door open for escape, the children's inferiority will reflect their parents' "I may decide to quit" marriage.

THE important thing in marriage is the quality of the children, and the next generation.

THE Latin races, conferring in Havana, decide that the right to revolt should not be taken away from any people.

Revolution underlies nearly all governments on these American continents, including our own. It would be foolish to suggest that all good revolutions have occurred, and that all, hereafter, must be bad.

MEXICO'S government, facing a rebellious revolution, started the discussion, suggesting that any revolt held by revolutionists should be isolated, outside nations keeping away from it. A Cuban representative objected, upholding the right of any people to rebel, and other delegates supported his view.

UNCLE SAM, a sort of Gulliver among Lilliputs, feels like a fish out of water at the conference. His neighbors are smaller, not so rich, in some cases envious and hostile. He cannot allow himself to be bound by any resolution or limitation approved by

2 DIE, 1 HURT AT CROSSING
Taxicab is Struck by Train at Schenectady, N. Y.

SCHENECTADY, N. Y., Jan. 31.—Two persons were killed and one was seriously injured early today when a taxicab in which they were riding was struck by a B. & M. train at Stephen's crossing.

The dead—Mrs. Grace E. Brown, 55 of Albany, Arthur Dumont, 26, of Saratoga, driver of the cab.

Miss Edith M. Cray of Albany, is believed to have suffered a fractured skull and internal injuries. Doctors held out little hope for her recovery.

CAPTURE ALLEGED "PHANTOM FIEND"

CLEVELAND, Jan. 31.—Police here today believed their efforts to capture the city's "phantom fiend" had been successful with the arrest of a 14-year-old lad, who, according to Lieut. Ivan Clemens, has admitted attacks upon five women and girls and burglary of several East Side homes during the past two months.

The "phantom" was captured last night by Michael Farragher and his son, Joseph, 19, after being routed from the bed room of Farragher's daughters through their frantic screams as he beat them with a claw-hammer.

Marry Farragher, 17, suffered a possible fracture of the skull from a blow of the hammer, while her sister, Julia, 14, sustained several lacerations of the scalp.

FLYER TURNS TOWARD HOME, ENDING SOUTH AMERICAN TRIP

Leaves Venezuela on 1,000-mile Jump to Virgin Islands.

CROWD CHEERS "Good Will Airman" Spends Night at Maracay.

MARACAY, Venezuela, Jan. 31.—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh America's "good will flyer" turned towards home today, ending his South American visit. Col. Lindbergh hopped off from the Maracay field at 6 o'clock this morning for St. Thomas, Virgin Islands. The distance is about 1,000 miles.

Motored from Caracas.

After circling the field to get his bearings the "Lone Eagle" headed eastward.

At 8:20 o'clock he passed over Barcelona, Venezuela, 200 miles east of this place on the coast. At Barcelona Lindbergh swung out over the coast line and turned his plane northward.

Col. Lindbergh spent the night here, having motored the 70 miles from Caracas last night. He arrived at 10:30 o'clock and had a good night's rest.

"The Spirit of St. Louis" got an ovation from a crowd at the field when it took off.

Follows Chain of Islands.

Lindbergh decided not to make the jump to St. Thomas in a straight line, but to follow the chain of the leeward and windward islands, which lie in a curving formation from the South American coast to Porto Rico. This was the longer route, but the flyer regarded it as safer. Also, it would be easier for him to keep his bearings with the islands strung out underneath him than in flying over the water and attempting to pick out the Virgin group from the mass of islets at the northern end of the chain.

21-Gun Salute for Flyer.

ST. THOMAS, Virgin Islands, Jan. 31.—A salute of 21 guns will greet Col. Charles A. Lindbergh when he arrives here this evening from Caracas. Incidentally, Col. Lindbergh will be back upon United States soil for these islands belong to the United States.

The "Lone Eagle" will land upon a golf course which has been named Lindbergh field in his honor. Only one other airplane has landed there.

Governor Waldo Evans issued a proclamation making tomorrow a public holiday. He paid a fine tribute to the "outfit flyer" as a man of character and courage.

The whole city is decorated with United States flags.

BOUGH MAY RUN FOR JUDGESHIP

Charles F. Bough, Columbiana county "dry" leader and a former mayor of East Liverpool, may be a candidate for probate judge at the general election next November, he announced today.

Bough, who now resides in Madison township near West Point, was elected mayor of this city about 30 years ago on a Prohibition ticket. He is a graduate of the law department of the University of Michigan and a member of the Ohio State Bar association. He has been president of the Columbiana County Law Enforcement League for several years.

His platform will be "vigorous law enforcement" and heavy penalties for violators of the prohibition laws, he said.

MAY DRAIN POND IN GIRL SEARCH

NORTHAMPTON, Mass., Jan. 31.—Investigation of the strange disappearance of Miss Francis St. John Smith by a county grand jury and complete draining and removal of ice cakes from Paradise pond on the Smith college campus were suggested today by Major Stanley Washburn, African explorer, author and journalist, who was here to represent the father and mother of the missing girl her parents having returned to New York.

Dr. L. H. Horton, of Boston was making an exhaustive psychological investigation, having been brought in to the case by Major Washburn.

Strikers' Kin Appeal for Food.

BEGG DEFENDS NICARAGUAN POLICY

Arkansas Folk Aid In Building Insanity Defense for Hickman

HICKMAN LAWYER EVADES CUPID

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Jan. 31.—Attorney Jerome Walsh of Kansas City, chief defender of William Edward Hickman, today was pondering over a leap year marriage proposal just received through the mails from an Atlanta, Ga., girl whom he has never met.

The letter said that its writer, whose name and address were attached, had fallen in love with the young lawyer's photograph and asked him to wed her after the Hickman trial because she "knew he was just the man for her."

Walsh is 25, handsome, wealthy and a member of the Missouri state legislature. After reading the missive, he said that he would answer it but not in the affirmative.

And the rugged spirit of the mountain folk who knew three generations of the Hickman family was reflected in the plain but eloquent words of their depositions.

These simple folk, though miles away, had, through their depositions, expressed their opinions that a strain of insanity ran through the maternal branch of the Hickman family to bolster the defense that William Edward Hickman was crazy and did not know that he was doing wrong when he stole and slew the 12-year-old school girl.

They had pictured Becky Buck, Hickman's grandmother, who died many years ago, as a queer old lady who had talked foolishly and cried for hours at a time.

Mother "High Strung Woman."

They had described Hickman's mother, Mrs. Eva M. Hickman, as a nervous, high-strung woman, driven to distraction because her husband "chased around after other women."

Hickman's mother worked in the cotton fields, they said, and was "the most heart-broken woman in the world," when she attempted to end her life by swallowing poison.

The mother took her five children wherever she went.

Once, the depositions stated, the distracted woman stood with a raised butcher knife over the sleeping form of her husband, William Thomas Hickman.

The testimony of ten witnesses was rattled off by Chief Defense Attorney Jerome Walsh as he read from approximately 100 typewritten pages.

National Defense Will Cost U. S. $20.50 a Second, President Says

By Robert S. Thornburgh.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31.—National defense will cost Uncle Sam $20.50 a second next year. This statement made by President Coolidge at the semi-annual meeting of the government business organization, brought forth the fact that in the six months ending January 1, the total outlay for the war and navy departments, and expenses incident to the World War amounted to $1,278,660,000.

All government expenditures for this period were but $1,924,429,000, the treasury department announced.

The president estimated the cost of national defense in the coming fiscal year at approximately $650,000,000. Considerable sums are expended by the war and navy departments on non-defense items.

Actual expenditures for the last six months on defense and comparable items were:

War department—$199,690,000.

Navy department—$162,723,000.

Veterans bureau—$200,573,000.

Interest—$362,108,000.

Sinking fund—$354,660,000.

For some years to come these expenses will form the major portion of governmental costs.

President Coolidge, in an economy plea to his executives, emphasized that the maximum reduction of taxes that the government can now afford is $25,000,000.

HINT "BOOTLEG WAR" WHEN SIX DIE IN BLAST

Two Others Injured in Explosion at Newton, Mass.

SEARCH RUINS
Two-story Stucco Block Completely Destroyed.

NEWTON, Mass., Jan. 31.—Explosion of gas used in a still, accidental explosion of dynamite stored in the cellar, or deliberate explosion of dynamite in an alleged "bootleg war" were the three theories under investigation today by state and city police of the blast which wrecked a two-story stucco block in West Newton, killed six and injured two.

The body of Salvatore Lacava, a chauffeur, the last known victim, was found this morning, although searchers were still digging the ruins.

The explosion completely destroyed the house and grocery store of Frank Gorgone.

HUGHEY JENNINGS AT DEATH DOOR

A cablegram hoping for his recovery was received in the sick-room from John J. McGraw, manager of the Giants, who also played on the old Baltimore Orioles with Jennings years ago.

MARINES SENT UPON REQUEST OF REPUBLIC, ROTARY TOLD

Sandusky Congressman Guest at Noon Luncheon.

FROSCH PRESIDES
Speaker is Candidate for Gubernatorial Nomination.

Intervention of the United States in the republic of Nicaragua was defended by Congressman James T. Begg, Sandusky, candidate for the Republican nomination for governor, in an address before 50 members of the Rotary club and their guests in the banquet hall of the Y. M. C. A. at noon today. His subject was "The Foreign Policy of the United States and Its Effect on Business."

Upholds Monroe Doctrine.

Begg, who came here from Canton where he spoke at a McKinley Day banquet last night, was introduced by Albert Frosch, vice president of the East Liverpool Sand company. He will return to Washington this afternoon.

"The United States marines have been in Nicaragua almost continuously since 1895 because they were requested by the party in control of the government," said Begg.

"The government of England and the government of Italy called upon Washington to protect the lives of its citizens and their property in Nicaragua during the war and the military forces of the United States were sent there at the request of the party in control."

"President James Monroe in 1823 issued a notice that any attempt on the part of any foreign country to interfere in any way with the destiny of America would be regarded as an unfriendly act." That is the Monroe Doctrine.

The American people, since that time, have stood behind the administration regardless of the party whenever the Monroe doctrine was at stake. Cleveland told England to get on its side of the Atlantic and Roosevelt took the same course against Germany when he was president.

"WE"

Epic of the Air
by
C. A. Lindbergh

CHAPTER XXII.
"I was at that time only 1,500 feet high, and as the engine did not pick up as soon as I expected I shoved the flashlight in my belt and was about to release the parachute flare and jump when the engine finally took hold again. A second trial showed the main tank to be dry, and accordingly a maximum of twenty minutes' flying time left.

"There were no openings in the fog and I decided to leave the ship as soon as the reserve tank was exhausted.

ed. I tried to get the mail pit open with the idea of throwing out the mail sacks then jumping, but was unable to open the front buckle. I knew that the risk of fire with no gasoline in the tanks was very slight and began to climb for altitude when I saw a light on the ground for several seconds.

"This was the first light I had seen for nearly two hours, and as almost enough gasoline for fifteen minutes' flying remained in the reserve, I glided down to 1,200 feet and pulled out the flare release cable as nearly as I could judge over the spot where the light had appeared. This time the flare functioned but only to illuminate the top of a solid bank of fog, into which it soon disappeared without showing any trace of the ground.

"Seven minutes' gasoline remained in the gravity tank. Seeing the glow of a town through the fog I turned towards open country and nosed the plane up. At 5,000 feet the engine sputtered and died.
"I stepped up on the cowl and out over the right side of the cockpit, pulling the rip cord after about a 100-foot fall. The parachute, an Irving seat service type, functioned perfectly; I was falling head downward when the risers jerked me into an upright position and the chute opened.

"This time I saved the rip cord. I pulled the flashlight from my belt and was playing it down toward the top of the fog when I heard the plane's engine pick up. When I jumped it had practically stopped dead and I had neglected to cut the switches. Apparently when the ship nosed down an additional supply of gasoline drained to the carburetor. Soon she came into sight, and headed in the general direction of my parachute.
"I put the flashlight in a pocket of my flying suit preparatory to slipping the parachute out of the way if necessary. The plane was making a left spiral of about a mile diameter, and passed approximately 300 yards away from my chute, leaving me on the outside of the circle. I was undecided as to whether the plane or I was descending the more rapidly and glided my chute away from the spiral path of the ship as rapidly as I could.

"The ship veered completely out of sight, but reappeared in a few seconds, its rate of descent being about the same as that of the parachute. I counted the five spirals, each one a little further away than the last, before reaching the top of the fog bank.
"When I settled into the fog I knew that the ground was within 1,000 feet and reached for the flashlight, but found it to be missing. I could see neither earth nor stars and had no idea what kind of territory was below. I crossed my legs to keep from straddling a branch or wire, guarded my face with my hands and waited.
"Presently I saw the outline of the ground and a moment later was down in a cornfield. The corn was over my head and the chute was lying on top of the corn stalks. I hurriedly packed it and started down a corn row. The ground visibility was about 100 yards.

Ritzy Rosey

These big cartwheel hats are back in fashion again, both for resort wear and the coming months. Ritzy Rosey has decided that they don't exactly suit her style of beauty, but she is trying these inverted "dishpan" hats on, anyhow. Oh, yes, she is wearing one of these pendant watches with a Buddha perched a top.

In a few minutes I came to a stubble field and some wagon tracks which I followed to a farmyard a quarter mile away. After reaching the farmyard I noticed auto headlights playing over the roadside. Thinking that someone might have located the wreck of the plane I walked over to the car.

"The occupants asked whether I had heard an airplane crash and it required some time to explain to them that I had been piloting the plane, and yet was searching for it myself. I had to display the parachute as evidence before they were thoroughly convinced. The farmer was sure, as were most others in a three-mile radius, that the ship had just missed his house and crashed nearby.

"In fact, he could locate within a few rods the spot where he heard it hit the ground, and we spent an unsuccessful quarter hour hunting for the wreck in that vicinity before going to the farmhouse to arrange for a searching party and telephone St. Louis and Chicago.

"I had just put in the long distance calls when the phone rang and we were notified that the plane had been found in a cornfield two miles away. It took several minutes to reach the site of the crash, due to the necessity of slow driving through the fog, and a small crowd had already assembled when we arrived.

"The plane was wound up in a ball-shaped mass. It had narrowly missed one farmhouse and had hooked its left wing in a grain shock a quarter mile beyond. The ship had landed on the left wing and wheel and skidded along the ground for 80 yards, going through one fence before coming to rest in the edge of a cornfield about 100 yards short of a barn.

"The mail pit was laid open and one sack of mail was on the ground. The mail however, was uninjured.
"The sheriff from Ottawa arrived, and we took the mail to the Ottawa post office to be entrained at 3:30 a. m. for Chicago."

"I'll tell the world"

IN SPITE of all your enthusiasm over a new salad oil or shoe or radio battery, you cannot possibly pass on the good news to more than a few people. You can't really "tell the world."

The manufacturer himself is in the same fix. He can't tell the world. His salesmen can't. His dealers can't. And the world ought to be told. It wants to know. It wants to know what's new, what's not only good, but better than the best; or cheaper; or more durable; or more useful; or just plain more fun.

Advertising "tells the world" today. Back of every advertisement is somebody, perhaps a whole group of somebodies, full of enthusiasm just as you are when you discover something that makes things easier or better for you. They are telling just as many people as they can reach in the world in person. But that is only a tiny fraction of those they speak to in advertising.

Advertisements are truly personal things to the people who write them. And they can be exceedingly personal for you, for they mean better food, better clothing, increased health, a happier home, greater prosperity.

Read the advertisements — they tell you what you want to know

Aid For Miners' Families

East Liverpool people, who have never turned a deaf ear to a worthy cause, are expected to show their usual generosity in the appeal of organized labor for contributions of money and clothing for the relief of families of striking coal miners in Ohio.

Committees representing the National Brotherhood of Operative Potters, parental organization of union ceramic workers, and Trades and Labor council, the central body, today were completing plans for the campaign. The plan was approved at a mass meeting at which the coal field situation was explained by representatives of the United Mine Workers of America.

Union labor's appeal is supplemental to the relief movement launched in the state by Gov. V. A. Donahey, who has sent members of the National Guard into the mine zones to ascertain the needs, and the Red Cross campaign now under way in behalf of the families of idle miners in the West Point zone.

Money is sought to purchase food, while clothing is needed for children of the miners who have had little, if any, work since last April, when the strike was declared. Investigators report that the families of the strikers are in destitute circumstances.

The relief movement should have the wholehearted support of the community.

Advice To Prize Eaters

Any young man ambitious to rise to the top in the eating and drinking profession should take warning from Albert Baker of New York and Hollywood, champion coffee drinker of the world. Such a career is not to be entered upon lightly and casually. It calls for careful, intelligent preparation.

"It is a serious and dangerous thing," says Baker, "for amateurs who have not studied their stomach capacity scientifically, and who have not been in training, to undertake coffee drinking and eating contests. Not only is it likely to cause illness, but I have known it to result fatally."

His solemn advice is inspired by the announcement that "Suicide Johnny" Pummer was killed the other day after eating 88 flapjacks in a championship contest. "What would you consider a proper training course for a person entering a wienner eating contest?" he was asked. Came the reply right off the bat:

"He should wear loose clothes to establish good circulation in the pores of the skin, take hot and cold baths, run two miles and sleep 12 hours every night."

Baker ought to know. As he admits himself, "his eating championship is undisputed." He "ate three full meals in 10 minutes in Hollywood, and has eaten 500 feet of spaghetti without stopping." Such achievement commands respect. It is good to have this sound advice from a supreme authority, and it is to be hoped that prospective stuffing champions will conduct themselves accordingly.

Cities, Clean And Dirty

"The average resident of St. Louis," says a heat and ventilating engineer, "is inhaling over a tablespoonful of dirt and soot every 24 hours."

St. Louis, he finds, is the "dirtiest" city in the United States. Its air has had regularly, according to an official "dust count," 17,600 particles of dust or dirt per cubic foot. Cincinnati is not much better. Then come other industrial cities, graded downward in dirt content, through Pittsburgh, Detroit, Chicago, Indianapolis, Cleveland, Louisville, Buffalo, etc., until we come to the tail end—which is the honor end—of the list, with Washington, Denver, New Orleans, San Francisco and Boston. The Hub rises to the proud eminence of having only 5,360 dirt particles in a cubic foot of her atmosphere.

It will be observed that in general the dirtiest cities are soft-coal-burning cities, and the cleanest ones are hard coal cities. There are some things to be explained, however, in each class. Whether burning clean or dirty coal, any city may avoid some of its dirt.

The greatest opportunity for improvement exists, of course, in the big industrial cities whose industry is based on the soft coal. It has been proved that most of the atmospheric dirt which disfigures them and renders them unhealthy is not only wasteful, but preventable. Good combustion methods not only make them pleasanter to live in but save millions of dollars in fuel and cleaning bills, preservation of fabrics and avoidance of illness.

Negro Improvement

Crime committed by Negroes, one phase of the American crime wave, is said to be steadily decreasing. Here is something worth looking into.

Sherman C. Kingsley, director of the Philadelphia Welfare Federation, says that the crime record of Negroes in the past has been due to "lack of opportunity." Crime has lessened among them with the increase of educational advantages, better health conditions and the work of helpful institutions.

There is still much to do in improving Negro housing conditions, but a good deal has been done, and has made a big change in the situation.

Another observer corroborates this evidence, and says that the American Negro is becoming more intelligent and physically stronger, and at the same time improving as a moral being.

Possibly some of the lessons learned here could be applied in the case of white folks as well as colored folks.

Gold In a Dictionary

A father, buying a second-hand dictionary for the use of his children in school, found some of the pages of his 15-cent bargain stuck together. He put the book on a radiator, from which it was later knocked off accidentally. As it fell to the floor the glued pages came apart and two gold coins rolled out.

The result of this surprising event may be guessed. The tale was told and soon all the neighbors flocked to the second-hand book store to look for more gold concealed in old books. It is not reported that this gold rush has yet had any sort of reward at all.

Yet there is treasure in books—even in dictionaries—only waiting to be dug out by people who know its worth well enough to go after it. Such treasure is worth far more to its finders than a whole bookfull of gold coins could ever be.

A Hundred-Cent Dollar

By Frederic J. Haskin.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 31.—In current economic discussions much is heard of the depreciated value of the dollar. Business men complain that their profits are not what they should be because they are in dollars that actually are worth only a little more than half what they should be worth. Wage earners explain high wages or amazing increases in wages by saying that the purchasing power of the dollar is barely three-fifths of what it should be and hence real wages—what a worker can buy with his labor—are not high nor have wage increases been unreasonable.

Landlords justify high rentals on the ground that our monetary unit has depreciated until it is only a sixty-cent dollar. Public utilities plead for increased rates with the same argument. In fact, there is almost universal lamentation to the effect that the dollar, like the old gray mare, "ain't what it used to be."

In the circumstances it is refreshing to note that there is one field where the dollar is doing its full duty. The automobile industry takes pride in declaring that never in its history—the industry's history—has the dollar purchased so much real value as at the present time. It may be a sixty-cent dollar when you get it in profits, dividends, salary, or wages, say the spokesmen for the industry, but when you invest it in a 1928 model automobile it is a hundred-cent dollar, and then some.

The high dollar value of 1928 automotive products is especially marked in the lower priced cars. Up until last season utility was the prime consideration with the makers of cheap cars. If a car was a fairly consistent performer and reasonably inexpensive to operate and maintain, what more could the customer ask?

Nor are there only two or three cheap cars on the market. The buyer of modest purse is offered a wide selection, for there are at least a dozen models that sell at under a thousand dollars, and all of them are of such excellence that it is virtually impossible for the buyer to go wrong.

In all, 3,066,000 cars and 461,000 trucks were produced last year, according to the figures compiled by the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce. Eighty per cent of the cars were of the closed type. The wholesale value of the cars was $2,100,000 and that of the trucks $366,750,000, the aggregate value being well over two and a half billions. The tire production ran to $66,000,000, the wholesale value of motor vehicle tires for replacement being $595,000,000. The wholesale value of parts and accessories for replacements and of service equipment was $750,000,000.

The average price of the cars sold was $653 and that of the trucks exactly $100 more. Taxes were paid on motor vehicles to the amount of $725,555,812 and the number of people employed in the automobile industry and allied lines was 3,675,000.

A total of 23,125,000 motor vehicles were registered in the United States out of a world registration of 28,900,000. Gasoline consumption amounted to 9,697,000,000 gallons; oil, 390,000,000 gallons; rubber used in tires, 630,000,000 pounds; cotton fabric used in tires, 219,000,000 pounds. Of all the cars sold 58 per cent were sold on the deferred payment plan.

Thermometer vehicle retail business showed for the year 52,592 dealers, 52,086 public garages, 85,983 service stations, and 67,753 supply stores.

This valuable service is for the free use of the public. Ask any question of fact you may want to know and you will get an immediate reply. Q. Can citrus fruits be shipped direct from Florida to Europe? R. F.

A. A direct service from Florida to England was inaugurated January 16th, when the Leyland steamer Day-tonian arrived at Liverpool with 5984 boxes of oranges and grapefruit.

Q. Of the newspaper reporters who witnessed the Snyder-Gray executions, how many favor capital punishment? P. A. S.

A. The Editor & Publisher says that a poll showed that nine favored it, eight opposed it, and three claimed to hold no opinions.

Q. In what state are no causes for divorce recognized? E. E.

A. Divorces are not permitted in the state of South Carolina.

Q. Why is the Barbizon school of painters so called? D. B. B.

A. Barbizon is the name of a French village near the forest of Fontainebleau. The village gave its name to a school of artists. It was an outcome of the conflict between the classical and romantic schools of painting which occupied the first half of the 19th century. The Barbizon school took nature as a guide. Jean Francois Millet, leader in the rustic genre, was one of the notable members of this school. Pierre Etienne Theodore Rousseau, French landscape painter retired to Barbizon in 1833 and spent there the latter part of his life.

Q. Please name some of the economic uses of the cactus plant? H. S. K.

A. The cactus is grown to be used as wood, for hedges and decorative purposes, in the manufacture of medicine, and as a vegetable and a fruit. Near San Fernando, California, there is a farm where cacti are raised for their apples alone. These are used for jellies, preserves, and for making candies. They have a meat which is sweet and pulpy in nature and about 80 per cent water.

Q. When were red and green lights first used in ships? F. W. L.

A. The Bureau of Navigation says that it is believed that one of the first laws requiring vessels to carry red and green lights was the act of March 3, 1849, which provided for vessels navigating the northern and western lakes. This act required that vessels on the starboard tack shall show a red light, vessels on the larboard tack a green light. The principal act relating to the carrying or running lights on vessels was the act of April 29, 1864, which has been amended from time to time.

Your Health

By Dr. Royal S. Copeland

"Have you ever thought about the wonderful powers of selection possessed by the human body? No matter what you eat or where you eat, or how the food may be, the foods taken into your stomach are worked over by the organs and distributed to all parts of the system. The needs of your body are accurately and exactly supplied."

Let us think about this for a moment. We eat many of the foods the lower animals take. They enjoy beets and carrots and cabbage, just as we do. But when they eat these vegetables, the products of their digestive processes become cow or sheep or turkey, as the case may be. When we eat these, they become human tissue.

Nature possesses what the scientists call "tissue proclivity," or "selective affinity." This is the power of each part of the organism to appropriate and use the substances sent to it by the blood streams.

But you can see that the organs must be well directed in their efforts. Otherwise, too much material might go to one place and not any to another.

Then there must be some sort of control so that there shall be a proper balance between supply and waste. There must be furnished exactly the right quantity of exactly the right food. The wastes of the body are being thrown off and they must be replaced by new materials.

The accurate regulation of intake and waste is referred to as the "metabolism" of the body. There are certain foods and glandular secretions which are known as "hormones." The hormones are the "regulators of metabolism."

One of the chemical substances we get in our food acts as such a regulator. This is iodine.

You have heard a good deal in recent years of the value of iodine as a cure for goiter or as a preventive of the disease. The chemical has been added to table salt in the effort to supply the deficiency.

The best way to get the essential iodine in a form to be accepted readily, is to eat the foods which normally contain it. The salad vegetables—lettuce, cabbage, kale, romaine—and vegetables like carrots are iodine carriers.

Efforts have been made to increase the quantities of iodine in the edible plants by fertilizing the soil with iodine carrying foods. There is much to be learned in this field, but at present the evidence is unconvincing.

There can be no doubt, however, that the materials are quite as necessary to human welfare, as are the foods which give growth and energy. The strength of the bones and tissues, the proper regulation of the functions of the organs, as well as the symmetrical growth of the body—all of these depend on the consumption of certain minerals.

Fruits, vegetables, and the cereals are particularly rich in mineral substances. But we must not forget that milk and meat are, too. Well-selected foods will provide everything needed for the body's welfare.

New York Day By Day

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Jan. 31.—New York is reputed to be the style center of America for fashionably dressed men. It does perhaps originate the latest cuts in clothes, the swankiest dips in hats and the flouziest patterns in shirts and ties. Yet they are seldom worn by real New Yorkers.

Perhaps the best dressed man seen on New York streets is Gene Markay of Chicago, a talented artist as well as writer. The average successful New Yorker wears loose fitting clothes of a pattern tailored call sedate. He tries to get away from fancy fripperies.

His Tuxedo and full dress are more likely than not of ancient vintage. He has no interest in the latest peak in coat lapels, the jaunty angle of a hat or the flair of a cuff. He could walk down any main street without being sartorially distinguished.

Of course, the metropolis has in-

Once Over

By J. J. Mundy.

Why Work Is Our Greatest Blessing. It is easy for you to pity yourself because you have to work; and even with work, life is such a struggle.

But perhaps it is because you must work constantly that you are a law-abiding citizen.

If you were not busy all the time would you not get into ways which might lead to a bad end?

What would you do to put in time if you had money enough to support you without any effort on your part?

Think of some of the things you believe you would do.

Would not many of them be of a discreditable nature?

And how bored you would be without occupation to interest you.

You would be looking for the things that would give you the most "kick."

And what are they?

Nothing beneficial or elevating, if you are like many elders.

Perhaps the greatest blessing you have is your work.

When a fellow says now that he wouldn't look at a girl the second time, he probably means that a second look would be superfluous.—Fostoria Times.

Think how insulted the bride's mother would be if the groom's parents wept.—Youngstown Vindicator.

numerable nifty dressers as symbolized by such styles as Otto Kahn, Ray Long, Gene Buck, George Jean Nathan, Roy Howard, Conde Nast and lesser lights, but the percentage of duds is not as high, according to population, as the average small city.

Flash dressers, of Manhattan are chiefly found in the theatrical world. Here attention-calling clothes are regarded as an asset and as a result they often become fantastic. Belasco's clerical collars and Zeigfeld's lavender shirts are trademarks and part of the lovely Broadway horizon.

In the aristocratic Murray Hill section it is not unusual to see congress gaiters, barrel cuffs, white lawn ties and flat-topped derbies. In the financial district important bankers feature habiliments that suggest parlor sea shells and twisted party lighters.

Indeed, New York is one city where clothes do not suggest the man. A doddily dressed man often turns out to be the head of a dozen corporation and a Bean Brummel may be just another bootlegger.

There are two men in New York of prominence who still blush. One is an actor and the other is general manager of an industrial concern. My last blush—in case you care—took place seven years ago when a man from my home town handed an old business card of mine around in a New Year gathering. It was decorated with crossed collars and read:

O. O. McIntyre,
Reporter, Gallipolis, O. Journal.
"Have you an item?"

The favorite dessert of a steel millionaire is vanilla ice cream with hot chocolate sauce. He has been known to order it for breakfast—wouldn't that gag the buzzard for you?—thereby putting a hotel kitchen in quite a flutter for the rest of the day.

On Fourteenth street a movie banter reads: "This is a family theatre—No spooning."

Harlem has a Star and Garter night club. To old timers it recalls the famous resort by the same name that flourished in the late seventies at 6th avenue and Thirteenth street. It was here that Billy Patterson, New York's most famous battender, held forth. Many drinks, well-known today, were invented by him. He was a favorite of the sportsmen of that day, a fat, jolly fellow who beamed good nature.

One night after leaving his place he was found black-jacked, his skull crushed like an eggshell. His murderer was never found and the mystery was responsible for that famous query: "Who struck Billy Patterson?"

Beatrice Lillie failed to click in a new play. Miss Lillie of "B" as she is known in Algonquin circles, was vastly amusing in her first New York appearance singing a song off key and tripping over an imaginary something or other—but it is not quite amusing enough to be kept up indefinitely.

Miss Lillie was accorded the warmest reception of any player this season, which is in pleasant contrast to the chilly silence in the reception of several of our American players in London.

A CLEAR COMPLEXION

Ruddy cheeks—sparkling eyes—most women can have. Dr. F. M. Edwards for 20 years treated scores of women for liver and bowel ailments. During these years he gave his patients a substitute for calomel made of a few well-known vegetable ingredients mixed with olive oil, naming them Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. Know them by their olive color. These tablets are wonder-workers on the liver and bowels, which cause a normal action, carrying off the waste and poisonous matter in one's system. If you have a pale face, yellow look, dailies, pimples, coated tongue, headaches, a listless, no-good feeling, all out of sorts, inactive bowels, you take one of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets nightly for a time and note the pleasing results. Thousands of women and men take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—now and then to keep fit. 15c, 30c and 60c.

The Russian Symphonic choir is a unique organization in the high quality of the voices which compose its membership. In the usual sort of choirs which are built along traditional lines, attention is given to the quality of entire sections. But the Russian choir is a compact body of 25 members and each voice has an important part to play in the interpretation of each member. Therefore, Basile Kiblichich, the director, selects his individual members with as much care as a conductor of a symphony orchestra selects each member of his orchestra. Particular care is given by Mr. Kiblichich to the timbre of each voice, to the range, to the quality of the voice and finally to the solo abilities of each singer. As a result, the Russian choir is really a body of solo singers joined together under the able leadership of a master musician in order to produce an organization, which has been called by many critics a "human orchestra."

LITTLE YELLOW CREEK DAM IS SAFE, SAYS MAYOR FOGO

SPILLWAY END CRACKED, BUT NO ALARM HERE

Wellsville Officials Will Make Reservoir Repairs.

SYSTEM IS O. K.

Executive Intimates Move for Filtration Plant.

Pointing out that while a small portion of the lower end of the spillway at the reservoir in the municipal water system had cracked slightly and erosion had removed small parts of the material, Mayor W. L. Fogo today announced that the Wellsville service department entertained no fears for the safety of the dam in Little Yellow Creek.

While indicating that any repair work at the reservoir would be handled by the service department, the mayor said that it would not be necessary to give it immediate attention. Section of the spillway from which portions have been washed out has been under surveillance of the department for some time, he said.

The spillway is that section of the reservoir which takes care of surplus water from the reservoir proper. Like the locks in a river dam, it is located alongside the reservoir.

The water department, the mayor said, is in good condition, financially and physically. The next few years, the chief executive intimated, may see action on the part of the city toward the construction of a filtration plant, which, it is recognized, is needed as a means of clarifying the present water supply.

City Engineer R. D. McGill pointed out the added advantage of a filtration plant recently in an address before the Kiwanis club. It was estimated then that such a plant would cost probably $100,000.

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKETS

NEW YORK, Jan. 31.—Monday's closing rally in the specialties was carried into early trading today, and sharp competitive bidding for fast-moving newcomers to the industrial, utility and specialty lists featured the first hour. Bullish pools in Montana Power, Hudson Motor, Radio, International Nickel, Green Canoe and other new speculative favorites pressed their advantage against the short interest, pushing prices upward in the maximum of 7 points, and in some cases completing 25 to 30-point advances in the current movement.

Buoyancy of the market is attributed largely to the enormous short interest that has been built up over the past year or so in active industrial and motor stocks, as well as in the new specialties, most of which are closely held. Though steel and motor trades have reported gratifying expansions in recent weeks, there have been no startling developments in other branches of industry and earnings reports now being submitted by railroad and manufacturing companies for the final quarter of 1927 are anything but satisfactory. United States Steel was again reactionary, on reports that the fourth quarterly earnings statement, to be released late today, would show the dividend not earned. The motor stocks were inactive but firm, and rails were steady. Montana Power sold above 160 on rumors of a pending announcement of important new acquisitions by the directors of the company. Federal Light and Traction pushed ahead to above 55 and gold dust sold at 95.

Short Talks by Thoughtful Mothers

A Wisconsin Mother says: "I find mothers very well informed on the subject of 'dope' in medicines. Few mothers now-a-days would buy a preparation that contained opiates or chloroform. A glance at the package before buying tells her this. With Foley's Honey and Tar Compound, the name tells a true story. It is quickly effective for coughs, colds, croup and throat irritations. HICKMAN PLAYS POKER, READS WILDE'S POEMS

Confessed Slayer Chums
With Bank Robber Suspect.

WINS "MIND" BETS

Youth Puts Aside Bible Sent Him by Friend.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Jan. 31.—In between court sessions, William Edward Hickman puts in his time playing poker and casino with Joe Wyson, bank robber suspect, and is already several hundred dollars ahead in "mind" bets.

The confessed slayer has laid aside the Bible sent him several weeks ago by an anonymous person, and which occupied his sole interest for several days. His principal reading matter now is the grim and ironic "Ballad of Reading Gaol," which mirrored Oscar Wilde's own life in prison at Reading, England.

Each afternoon, when the day's court session is over, Wyson is brought into Hickman's cell. They play and draw poker, "casino" and "blackjack," making "mental" bets. When the time is up, Wyson goes back to his cell, for Hickman has no cellmate. Until permission was granted him to have a fellow prisoner for company, Hickman played solitaire for many hours a day.

For a man whose life is demanded by the state for the murder of Marion Parker, the youth's choice of poetry is considered grotesque by his jailers. Wilde's famous poem cannot be called cheerful, especially to a youth who faces the gallows.

TURNER ATTACKS "UTILITY CONTROL"

CANTON, O., Jan. 31.—"The utility control in Ohio will not be broken until the people of this state take political domination away from the Anti-Saloon league and restores it to the regular political parties," declared Attorney General Edward C. Turner here today.

Turner, who is a candidate for the Republican gubernatorial nomination, addressed members and friends of the McKinley club, in the Courtland hotel here last night.

THE United States must make and carry out its own plans, and at most, can listen, sympathetically, to what the smaller American republics have to say, without permitting them to make rules controlling the United States, or in any way limiting its rights. That is the fact and might as well be put plainly.

THE Prince of Wales, hopefully discussing trade revival, wonders whether human beings invented earrings or trousers first. Man's passion for adornment, he thought, probably produced earrings before clothes.

HE is right about that. Darwin tells of Patagonian ladies, living in a climate often bitter, that would not think of coming from their huts to let a stranger see them until they had painted their faces and arranged "their hair." But they did come out without one stitch of clothing.

PRESIDENT SEES NO MINE REMEDY

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31.—President Coolidge feels that the government has gone as far as it can in trying to effect a settlement of the soft coal strike. Discusses Farm Problems. "The United States produces approximately 25 per cent more than it consumes. Congress is called upon at every session to solve the question of the farm surplus."

"The masses of the people in the United States are better housed, better clothed and better fed than the masses of any other foreign country. Why? Simply because our living conditions have improved. Sixty per cent of the articles which were on the luxury list 15 years ago today are on the necessary list."

"The United States must find a market outside of the country for its surplus. Japan with its small population buys more from the United States than does China with its 600,000,000 people. Fifty years ago China and Japan were living the same. Japan's policy was changed and today it is 100 years ahead of China. China is suffering from a lack of food. The foreigner living in China sells his garbage, not to the man who owns hogs, but to his citizenship and they eat it. "If we can encourage China to buy American made goods there will be no surplus. Raise the standard of living in China and American industry will prosper. That's the spirit which the missionaries which we send to China are teaching today."

Special guests were Dr. J. S. McCullough, Wellsville; Dr. John Fraser, Frank Swaney and Frank G. Jones. Clarence J. Brown, secretary of state, will be the speaker at the Rotary meeting on February 14, when Leon Rubin will be chairman.

M'NARY-HAUGEN BILL BOOSTED AT FARM MEET

Chester H. Gray Says
Plan Will Aid Agriculture.

NEEDS CITED

"We are Living in Consumer Civilization," he Says.

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 31.—Passage of the McNary-Haugen farm relief bill is the only plan yet devised that exhibits any good qualifications for the benefit of the farmer. Chester H. Gray, of the legislative department of the American farm bureau federation, declared here today, at the second day meeting of the sixteenth annual Ohio farmer's week in session at Ohio State university.

"Two things are wrong with farming, and both may be remedied by passage of the McNary-Haugen bill. 'We are living in a consumer civilization,' Gray pointed out, 'for there are more people in towns and cities than on the farms, and we have ceased to be an agricultural nation.'"

"The United States is now the creditor nation of the world. Our financiers are now loaning money to countries who pay back in farm products, to the detriment of American farmer."

"Agriculturists should be more outspoken," Gray declared, "in setting up handicaps to prevent the conditions which have been detrimental to their industry."

REV. J. B. EDIE CLOSES 2-WEEK REVIVAL HERE

"Unpardonable Sin" Orchard Grove Church Sermon.

CROWD ATTENDS

Special Music Features Services in Methodist Edifice.

"No one who feels the pull of the Holy Spirit and has remaining a spark of desire to serve Jesus Christ has committed the unpardonable sin," affirmed Rev. Joseph B. Edie, Youngstown pastor, in the concluding service of a two-week revival at the Orchard Grove Methodist Episcopal church Sunday evening. "All such are still within the domain of God's mercy," he said. His subject was "The Unpardonable Sin."

Returning from preaching to his own congregation at McDonald, Pa., earlier in the day, Rev. Mr. Edie, despite the traveling thus made necessary, was in fine form and was greeted by the largest audience of the campaign, several being from nearby towns and other churches of the city.

"The Harvest of a Godless Life" was the theme of the morning sermon by the pastor, Rev. E. A. Conn. He stressed the negligence of Israel during the days of the Prophet Isaiah when they so forgot God as to form an alliance with Babylon against Assyria; the criminal action involved in a worldly choice and the divorce resulting from the lofty conceptions they previously had when depending upon and putting their trust in the Almighty.

"Israel descended from the spiritual heights that had once been theirs to the plains of depravity and ingratitude," he observed. "And that is what people do now who do not give God the first place in their lives. The All-wise Creator demands no less than the best all possess."

"The descent into sin is gradual as it was with Judd Gray. He, as do all who succumb to easy lowering of standards, suddenly awake to find himself hopelessly in its toils. Drifting from goodness always has such a result. The harvest time of sinners has no crops meet for God's notice. They walk through the garden unable to meet the Gardener."

Music by the church's orchestra preceded the song period of the initial part of the evening's service. The orchestra was composed of Robert Dunlap and Floyd Cunningham, clarinets; Floyd Cunningham and Kenneth Burbeck, cornets; Richard Cooper, drums, and Miss Ruth Cooper, piano.

A solo, "The Sweetest Story Ever Told," was sung by Clifford Smith. Charles A. Price directed the singing with Mrs. A. M. Burns and Miss Edwina Wilson, a recent student of music in Boston, as accompanists.

The invocation was made by Rev. E. A. Conn, the pastor.

That this meeting concluded his second revival of the winter and will be followed by a third soon to begin in his own church was confided by Rev. Mr. Edie as he thanked the congregation for their courtesies to him during his stay here this and last year. "You have been uniformly kind to me and mine," he said. "Were it not that your pastor has always been a bosom friend of mine I doubt whether I should have agreed to come here at this time."

"You are to be congratulated on having such a minister. I feel like saying with John the Baptist as I leave: 'I must decrease, but he must increase in the work yet to be done here. But he can not do this without the absolute support of the members of the congregation over which he presides.'"

He gave Mrs. A. M. Burns a full need of praise for her work at the organ and the piano during the services.

"And would have you all know that I regard the East Liverpool Review as one of the cleanest papers that has come to my notice. It gives due and proper space to religious news and services for which the community should share appreciation."

THE Studebaker Commander established 50 world's records for speed and endurance during 1927. Today it holds every official endurance and speed record for fully equipped stock cars regardless of power or price.

Nothing ever went so far so fast as the three Commanders which each traveled 25,000 miles in less than 25,000 consecutive minutes at the Atlantic City Speedway in October. Two roadsters made the run in 22,968 minutes and the sedan in 24,200 minutes. The run was made under the supervision of the American Automobile Association which checked every car and certified to its stock design.

Prominent Eastern Official Declares he Wouldn't Want to Handle Game Even if it is Played Next Fall.

NEW YORK, Jan. 31.—Captain "Bill" Jones and Commander Jonas Ingram, respective head coaches of football at West Point and Annapolis, fine fellows in their own right and cordial in their personal relationship, refused to pose together for a photograph at the Astor hotel here, it was learned today. The incident was cited as showing the temper of the two academies on the question of their eligibility codes and as a warning to congressmen who are trying, with some indication of impending success, to force the pair together next fall.

Army and Navy football never has been noted as a strictly genteel pastime. Clean football is harder on the proboscis than the unwashed kind. The Army and Navy play clean football of that type when they like each other. They do not at present; at least, they seem to be hopelessly estranged by their respective ideas on eligibility and it might seem to be the better part of good judgment to let them "cool out" at their leisure. A prominent eastern official informed the writer today that he might not care to handle the game if it is played this year.

It Would Be Hot Game. "It might turn out to be one of the worst things that could happen to football," he said. "These fellows would be all wrought up and, if an official had to throw eight or ten of them out of the game, it wouldn't look good. I don't think I would want to be that official."

The Jones-Ingram incident is important only because it clearly indicates how keen the tension is at West Point and Annapolis. These very good friends simply couldn't afford to pose together because they felt there might be a "kick back" the matter from those higher up at the two academies. At that, Jones first agreed to the photographer's proposal and, then thinking better of it, forbade the taking of the picture.

However, you keep a camera man down mostly by placing a grand piano upon his chest after first taking the precaution to nail his hands firmly to the floor. While Jones and Ingram were talking, the photographer approached from the surreptitious rear and shot his flash light. The shutter of his camera jammed and he didn't get the picture after all but Jones didn't know it. He spent the rest of the day asking newspaper friends, of which he has many, to suppress the photograph.

It developed at Philadelphia last Saturday night that the Navy still entertains a faint hope that the game can be salvaged for next fall. It builds this hope on the fact that Major General Winans, commandant at West Point, is due for a transfer on March 1. The Navy regards Winans as the real die-hard of the entire controversy and, therefore, is waiting to see what might happen in March before it definitely accepts Princeton as a substitute opponent in place of the Army. The latter is supposed to be marking time for the same reason in its negotiations with several prospective opponents, including Nebraska.

The belief of John Sap and his cousin, Joe Gum, is that President Coolidge will do something. The service academies have no such faith. They know the president won't because he can't. They say it is not within his province because football is neither a legitimate course nor an officially recognized activity at either school. Secretaries Wilbur and Davis are handicapped for the same reason, it is said. They could forbid the academies to play but they can't insist upon them doing it.

Wildcats Win From Gophers

EVANSTON, Ill., Jan. 31.—Northwestern's Wildcats were in undisputed possession of second place in the Big Ten basketball standings today as a result of defeating Minnesota here last night. The score was 25 to 23. It was the Gophers' second straight

Bettridge Five Wins 'Y' Contest

Move up into Tie for Second Place With P. & L. E.

CARL BETTRIDGE'S B. & O. basketballers handed the P. & L. E. passers a 42 to 14 trouncing in a "Y" Senior League battle last night, and as a result of their triumph, the winners move up into a tie for the runner-up position with the team they defeated.

The P. & L. E. crew, however, was short handed and unable to handle the onslaught of plays that the B. & O.'s shipped in their direction. With a full complement of players, Captain Kittridge's squad would have given the opposition a battle all the way but, lacking a forward, they were handicapped in their offensive and found it difficult to check the shots of Swaney, Sayre and Bettridge.

The winners got off to a fast stride in the first period and were never headed thereafter. The first quarter gave them a 6 to 3 margin. In the second they piled on more points and they were out in front with an 18 to 7 count at the half.

Th tally continued to mount and stood 28 to 13 at the end of the third period and the final stanza was a repetition of the preceding three.

Swaney, with six field goals and three fouls, was the principal point producer. Captain and Kittridge led the play for the losers.

VETERAN OF THE GREEN TABLE

Exposes 'Hollywood Athlete' And 'Mezzanine High Hurdler'

Rockne Says He's Boy Who Confounds Culture With Lipstick and Works at Night; Won't Perspire—It's Vulgar.

CHICAGO, Jan. 31.—Introducing the "Hollywood athlete" and the "mezzanine high hurdler." The parent of the quotations is Knute Rockne, Notre Dame's famous gridiron mentor, who entertained 1,500 listeners at Hirsch Center with a lecture on football.

Rockne, in his inimitable way, drew a humorous picture of a game between Northwestern university and Notre Dame in the year 1940. The description was so funny that several persons, overcome by fits of hysterical laughter, had to leave the hall.

Then, in a more serious vein, the Irish mentor classified college students as he has known them: "First," he said, "there is the 'grid' who studies 24 hours every day. He is a fine fellow but I always tell him he should look to his health or he will suffer later."

"Next, there is the fellow who studies seriously, but also plays seriously. He is the backbone of our present day colleges."

"And finally, there is the Hollywood athlete, the mezzanine floor high hurdler. "These are the boys who do their work at night. They confound culture with lipstick. They don't go out for athletics because to perspire is vulgar. The only time you can get them to do anything is when you want to hire an orchestra or decorate a hall."

And it was here that Rockne drew his moral. He said the students in the latter classification are increasing so rapidly that by 1940 football fans who want to read the account of a game will have to turn to the society page instead of the sport page.

BOWLING

Indiana Trucks of the Liberty duckpin league had a chance last night to mess things up for the league leading Altmans, but scores of 661 and 678 were not good enough to turn the trick and, as a result, the Clothiers won two out of three and are still perching high and dry at the top of the league. Crede Morris was on again last night, rolling a series score of 538.

Teddy Welsh, Boylestein On Next Mitt Card Here

McDonough Seeks Sig Keppen as Foe for McKeesport Fighter, Californian as Opponent For New Kensington Boy.

Teddy Welsh, popular McKeesport, Pa., boxer, has definitely signed articles with Matchmaker Tom McDonough to appear in the next Eagles' fight program. McDonough announced today.

The date for the lodgement's first-cut session will be Monday, February 13, it was announced.

Sig Keppen has been tentatively nominated to oppose Welsh in the F. O. E. ring here. McDonough expects to get Keppen's name on a contract within the next few days.

Freddy Boylestein, New Kensington lightweight who made a big hit with fight followers here last week, will probably make his re-appearance on the next program. Boylestein, in communication with the lodge promoters yesterday, indicated he was willing to wield the gloves here again next month.

Patsy Kelley, a Californian, will be lined up by McDonough as Boylestein's opponent, if possible.

Local boys will furnish the first works in the preliminary.

SPORT NEWS AND VIEWS

By the Sports Editor.

It won't be long now—a month and a half or so—until Earl Greenwalt starts his big basketball feud here. The Tri-State amateur basketball tournament, as the event is known, was instituted two years ago and met with success right off the bat. Last season it was even more so. And this year's tournament should be up to the standard.

Running for two days, with between 30 and 40 teams entered, the tournament enables fans to gorge themselves with basketball sufficient to last them over until the fall season starts again. Spice and interest was added to the tourney last March when a bunch of husky individuals calling themselves the Campbell Merchants stepped in and topped the championship, led by one big Tony Paulsey. The Merchants waded through independent, scholastic and collegiate opposition for win after win until Tony's tongue was hanging out and the rest of the squad was ready to flop.

The tourney was toned up with entries from Bethany, Mt. Union, Muskingum and Wooster colleges. The collegiates, of course, performed under team names other than those of the college with which they were affiliated but at the same time fans got a good look-in on Ohio conference basketball.

Although Greenwalt has formulated no plans yet, the tourney likely will be held as usual the latter part of March.

Freddy Boylestein, New Kensington lightweight, was stopped in the early rounds of his bout with Larry Brignolia, Erie pug, Friday night in the Maestros ring, at Erie. Local fight followers who watched Boylestein perform here the night before are at a loss to account for the New Kensington boy's K. O., unless this Brignolia has a lot of stuff he's not credited with, or—too much fighting by Boylestein.

Boylestein went through five rounds at the Eagles on Thursday night with Billy Kimm, of Columbus. The Ohioan, evidently, was not up to Boylestein's standard, and the latter, naturally, took it fairly easy through the five rounds. But, at the same time, two fights in two nights make a pretty tough schedule.

Matchmaker Tom McDonough may try to bring Boylestein and Joe "Boo" Ryan together in one of the F. O. E. scraps in the near future.

Albert Bergner, local billiardist, is setting the pace for seven other contenders in the Club Billiard parlor three-cushion meet now under way. Bergner has polished off three of the seven in matches to date and appears to be stepping along with a stride that will be hard to break.

gressiveness and superior ringcraft won him the decision at the end of ten rounds. Earl Mastro, Chicago bantamweight, outpointed Jimmy Sayre of Lafayette, Ind., in the six-round semi-windup.

Kiwanis Passers Cop First

Salineville Beats Lisbon in County Loop Scrap.

TOM CARTWRIGHT'S Salineville Kiwanians, runners-up to the East Liverpool Elks for the first half county league championship, started off again on a title gait last night with a 38 to 32 victory at Lisbon.

The Kiwanians had a battle on their hands, especially in the final period, but managed to emerge with a six-point margin.

The visitors got away quickly in the opening period, leading the county seaters by a 14 to 2 count at the first intermission. In the second stanza, however, Johnsons quit outplayed and outscored Salineville and, at the half, was trailing by only four points, the count being 21 to 17 at this stage. The battle was close the rest of the way with Salineville sporting to retain its lead.

Salem Studebakers are scheduled to perform at Wellsville tonight against the Wellsville Elks. The Wellsville squad has been strengthened for the second half and a keen scrap is forecast.

Tomorrow night Smith Anderson's Elks open their second half schedule at Salineville and will play the Wellsville Elks here on Saturday night.

"Smile, Brother, Smile," starring Jack Mulhall and Dorothy Mackail, is the feature picture.

This story was written by Al Boasberg, who recently has risen to a place among America's foremost hu-that he knows how to inject romance as well as comedy into his stories.

"Smile, Brother, Smile," described as an epic of the traveling salesman, offers comedy, drama and a delightful love story.

It shows Jack Mulhall as a struggling young salesman in a cosmetic factory, whose efforts to put his com-dered by his manager, who secretly is in the employ of another company.

Dorothy Mackail, as the factory

Jack the aid he needs in scoring a

ANNIE LAURIE'S TIMELY ADVICE

Dear Annie Laurie:
I am a girl in my teens. I have been going with a young man two years my senior for about two years, and he says he cares only for me. He is very jealous of my boy friends. We are to be married in a few months.
Do you really think he loves me, and do you think it is right for him to go with other girls since he does not want me to go with other boys?

BILLY:
Billy: In a matter of this sort, my dear, I am inclined to agree that "what is sauce for the goose is sauce for the gander," and I think your friend is selfish to wish to deprive you of a privilege he himself makes use of.
If you are to be married so soon, I think it would be wise for you both to stop going out with other friends and I would suggest that you have a talk with your fiancé and explain your feelings on this subject. Whether or not he loves you is a matter you yourself will have to determine, but I do not think that the fact that he goes out with other girls is necessarily an indication that he is not deeply concerned for you. If, however, there is any doubt in your mind it might be advisable for you to postpone your marriage until you are quite certain and sure of yourself.

"OLD IRONSIDES" IS SCREEN HIT

As a motion picture spectacle "Old Ironsides," which opened last night at the Ceramic theatre, will remain supreme for a long time.

The intrepid vivacity of the brave
New England Yankee who abandoned his homes and families to answer the call to arms against the pirates of Tripoli in 1804 is recorded in a masterly fashion in the photoplay. The production, which was directed by James Cruze, is based upon an original story by Laurence Stallings and was suggested and adapted for the screen by Harry Carr and Walter Woods.

It is "a great picture" and offers to the public much that is new.

The picture is recommended to every person, no matter what their taste in the theatre or in the movies.
There is never a dull moment.

Esther Ralston, Wallace Beery, George Bancroft, Charles Farrell and Johnny Walker all did their bit. None of them could have been improved upon. "Old Ironsides" truly stands as the greatest story of early America and her people that has ever been offered upon the screen.

Capacity crowds witnessed the initial showing last night. "Old Ironsides" will be the attraction throughout the week.

IF BACK HURTS
BEGIN ON SALTS

Flush Your Kidneys Occasionally by Drinking Quarts of Good Water.

No man or woman can make a mistake by flushing the kidneys occasionally, says a well-known authority.
Too much rich food creates acids which clog the kidney pores so that they sluggishly filter or strain only part of the waste and poisons from the blood. Then you get sick. Rheumatism, headaches, liver trouble, nervousness, constipation, dizziness, sleeplessness, bladder disorders often come from sluggish kidneys.

The moment you feel a dull ache in the kidneys or your back hurts, or if the urine is cloudy, offensive, full of sediment, irregular of passage, or attended by a sensation of scalding, begin to drink soft water in quantities;
also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any reliable pharmacy and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine.

This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to activity,

William Zaft, carpenter, 2311
Montclair Ave., Cleveland, O., looks forward to the building season, this year, with interest. For several years past his work has been a matter of indifference because he felt so badly.

Redwood.
Mr. Zaft says: "I was troubled with nervousness for three years and felt so miserable that I didn't care if I worked or not. I could not sleep soundly. I would wake up about every morning with a headache. My appetite was poor and I seldom ate any breakfast."

"Every muscle and joint in my body
ached and I was just dead on my feet.
My food didn't taste right. Since taking four bottles of Redwood's Tonic my nerves are in good condition. I sleep soundly, get up in the morning with a clear head and an appetite for breakfast."

"Even when I do a big day's work
I am not unusually tired. I do not feel stiff and sore like I did. My bowels are regular and I have gained five pounds."

Mr. Zaft who makes the above statement has worked at his trade in all parts of Cleveland. At present he is in the employ of the Carson Construction Company.
Tepee Tonic can be had at Carna-han's Drug Store and at all well stocked drug stores in East Liverpool and surrounding towns.

A Thrilling Story of the Night Clubs
By Phillip Dunning and George Abbott.

CHAPTER 14.

Billie paused a moment, looking appealing at Roy, her eyes all misty; then stepped in and closed out the damp drought of the brick-lined alley. She wore the little black and red silk dress with the saucy red hat. A corsage of magenta orchids trembled on her breast. Roy's eyes were fastened on these expensive flowers at once, and so were Mazie's, but Roy's eyes were filled with condemnation while Mazie's thoroughly approved.

Billie was greeted by artillery fire of exclamations. "Here she is now!" said Lil, sarcastically, finishing the last drop of her powerful drink and setting the glass down on the piano.

Gee whiz, Billie!—began Roy, but she interrupted him with the anxious question, "Is Mr. Verdis sore?"

"Oh, no, nobody's sore—just curious," said Lil, now staring at the orchids also.

Touched by her distress, Roy attempted to appease her. "He was kinda sore till I talked him out of it. He may say a little something, but don't pay no attention to him." Then remembering he must be stern for her own good and for the good of the act, "Where you been?"

"On an auto ride this afternoon, and then to supper. Mr. Crandall said he'd keep track of the time," she replied, unconscious of her cruelty.

Roy felt his heart contract. He was swept by a wave of jealousy. "Oh, him!" he exploded, in spite of himself as Lil smirked her lips, as much as to say, "What did I tell you?"

Smiling, Mazie looked her little room-mate over. "So you been out with Steve?" she purred.

"I didn't think there was anything wrong," stammered Billie.

"And there ain't!" reassured Mazie, patting her hand. The orchids were flaunting their expensive magnolia and subtle odor in Roy's face. He had to say it. "Did Crandall give you them—dandy-ions?" he asked, trying to speak calmly.

Last night it might be diamonds! About to reply, Billie was interrupted by Mazie who drew her aside. "Listen, Billie," she said, "if you was out with Steve, you got nothing to worry about 'cause Nick won't dare say a word to you."

"I didn't mean to be late, honest, I didn't!" Billie explained, glancing anxiously at Roy who was looking moodily at his dancing shoes which he still held in his hand. "But it was just so wonderful and the orchestra was playing special numbers that he asked 'em to play just for me—and it just seemed like I was in a dream of something."

Mazie shook her head, sadly. "And ain't it tough when you wake up?" she breathed, reminiscently.

Billie rattled on. "I just don't know where the time went, that's all. She paused; fumbled in her purse; drew out some green cigarette coupons and walked over to Roy who glanced up quickly. "Roy," she said, "here's some more coupons."

He didn't want to take this peace-offering. They probably came from Crandall, but he wouldn't make a petty show before Lil and Mazie. He accepted them suddenly, adding them to the roll that he always carried about in his hip pocket. He turned to move away, when she began to explain further. "You see, Roy, when Mr. Crandall asked me to go to dinner with him, I told him I had a rehearsal and he promised to get me here on time."

Roy wanted to believe her. Yes, it was all that Crandall's fault. He was a man of the world. He ought to know better, so pugnaciously Roy demanded, "Where is the big stiff?"

With a sinking heart he saw the indignation on her face—heard the resentful tone of her voice. "He's outside parking the car." Her adorable little head tossed.

So she felt that way about it, did she? Was Lil right? Did she really intend to give him the bum's rush? Why, the poor little kid didn't know what she was doing. His pale eyes narrowed as he spoke to her. His voice was tense. "I guess maybe it's time I give you a piece of advice, Billie—lay off these sugar daddies. I seen a lot of these big cabaret spenders—there's only after one thing—"

Billie started to take off her hat and coat, as Mazie moved toward the wall phone, scratching her head, suspiciously. "Wonder if that banana did give me a phoney name? Hellezar, hummm?"

Roy felt his advice falling on barren ground, but he tenaciously continued. All right, he'd tell her what he really suspected. Butter and egg man—Florida! Humpf! "Look here!" he demanded, pointing a tense finger at her. "Say, where do you s'pose he got his money, anyhow?"

"In Florida real estate, vacantly, but before he could cast his bomb, Lil cut in. "Listen, Personality—what difference does it make in this man's town where you get the sugar so long's you got it?"

Mazie chorled, and now the weenies returned from the bar, followed in a moment by Verdis. There was no chance to continue, what with the shrieking that ensued when Ruby and Grace saw Billie. The air throbbed with their shrill questions and accusations. Roy gulped and moved toward the dressing-room stairs.

Then Nick began, his round face red with anger. "Well—so you did come—What you got to say for yourself—no, don't say it! Of all the dam' nerve!" He stopped, sputtering, at a loss for words. His fists were doubled up.

Roy paused on the stairs. He really ought to let her take her medicine! It was coming to her. No, he couldn't let this Greek Simon Legree get away with stuff like this. Nobody living could talk to Billie that way. He stepped down—"say!"

The oaken door opened quickly, again admitting the damp and evil draught from the brick-lined alley. Those in the room shivered and turned to look. Steve Crandall, tall and handsome in his dinner clothes, entered casually, a cigarette in his mouth, the ghost of a smile on his lips.

"Evening, Nick," he said, drawing it, smoothly. The door clicked behind him. The man's domineering personality swept the room.

It was humorous to see the effect on Nick, the Greek. He seemed to shrink; almost bowed, changing instantly from Mr. Nick Verdis the proprietor, to Nick the waiter. "Well, look who's here. Good evening, Mr. Crandall, glad to see you."

Continuing his smile, with a smile of smug triumph, Roy thought hotly, Crandall strolled down to Verdis, acknowledging the glances of the admiring weenies. "Hope I didn't keep Billie from rehearsal, Nick?" he said, blowing an insolent cloud of cigarette smoke.

Nick rubbed his hands together. "I was just gonna ask her where she was—"

"Guess it didn't put you out much, did it?" Nick shook his head. "No, no, it didn't make so much difference."

CHAPTER 15.

Ruby, listening bitterly, jealous eyes fixed on Crandall's tall, well-knit figure, growled sarcastically, "I should say not!" receiving an ugly look from Mazie who stood with her arm around Billie.

Lil rose from the piano, disgust written all over her bold features. "Well," she thundered, "are we going to rehearse some more or ain't we? I been sitting here for three hours and my feet hurt."

Nick thought it over quickly. "No, Billie can rehearse with Jack Donahue here," he said, indicating Roy.

"No trouble at all," replied Lane, looking through narrowed eyes at the supremely calm Steve Crandall. "So that's all for the rest of you," Steve flung at the girls, walking away.

The weenies, chattering, flocked toward the dressing room stairs, when Steve's cool voice stopped them. "Oh, by the way, I'm tossing a little party tonight, and I'd like to have you all stay."

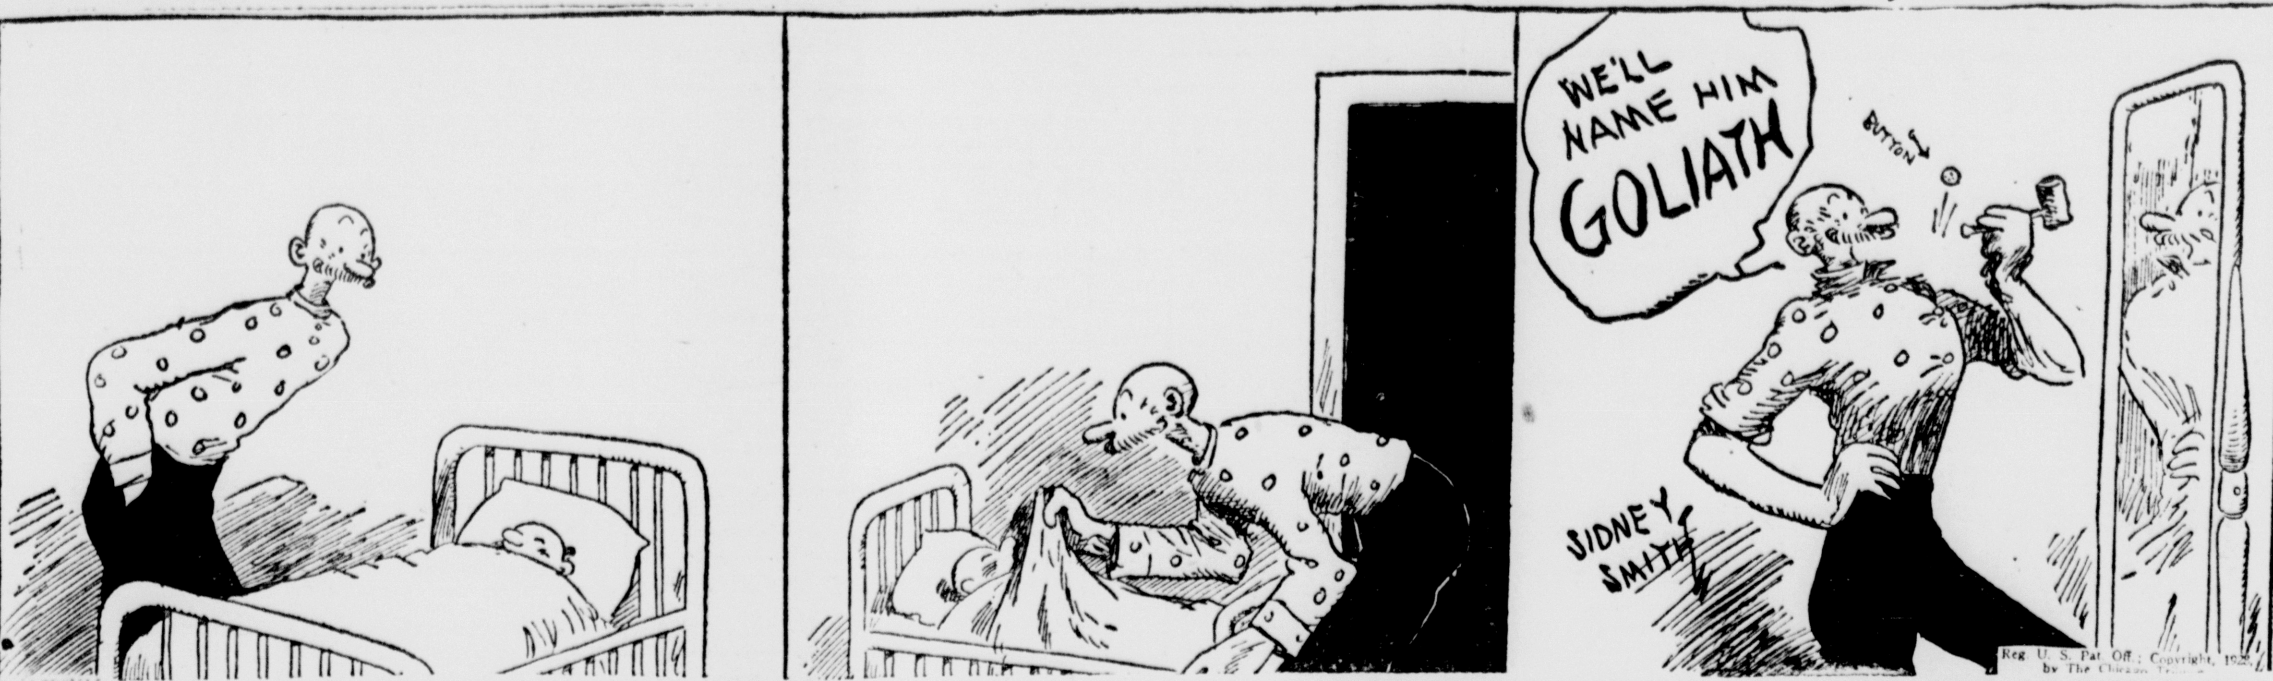

The girls seemed delighted and expressed themselves loudly, all except the inscrutable Pearl, who continued up the stairs.

Steve called after her. "How about it, Pearl?"

OLD MAN PROUDFOOT DOESN'T INTEND TO LET OTHER FOLKS BUSINESS INTERFERE WITH HIS PLEASURE—

Grand Circuit Reinsmen Keep 'Pupils' at Work in Southland

Seven Prominent Drivers Watching Them Step Below Mason-Dixon Line as Winter Grips North.

CLEVELAND, O., Jan. 31.—Reinsmen who make things hum along the Grand Circuit again are heeding the call of the warm climes of the southland. Seven of the most prominent drivers already are putting their pupils through their paces below the Mason-Dixon line. They are Ben F. White, America's premier trainer of trotting colts and fillies; Tommy Berry, the Hanover Shoe Farms tutor; Will Dickerson of Goshen, N. Y.; Will Rosemire, the Cleveland colt developer; John L. Dodge, the millionaire horseman of Lexington, Ky.; and the two Indianapolis luminaries, Lon McDonald and Son Palin.

White, as usual, is located with a large group of royally bred youngsters at Orlando, Fla. This city has proved an excellent training base for him. Greatly benefitted by several months of work in ideal weather, the White pupils, as well as other equines that winter in the south, generally are in better condition than the horses, that receive their lessons through northern drifts, for the rich early weather also attains their peak before the latter.

In the last few years, White has prepared such stellar performers at his Orlando camp for Grand circuit warfare as Mr. McElwain, 1:59 1/4; Sumatra, 2:02 1/4; Lee Worthy, 2:03 1/4; Kashmir, 2:03 1/4; Allen Guy, 2:03 1/4; Isola's Worthy, 2:03 1/4; Station Belle, 2:04 1/4; Benelwyn, 2:04 1/4; and Ruth M. Chenault, 2:07 1/4. All were great futurity stars.

Mr. McElwain Owns List of Records. MR. McELWAIN, who has entered the ranks of sires and is owned by the Dallas, Tex. sportsman, W. H. L. McElwain, holds a string of records. Jointly with Firelog, the juvenile sensation of last season, he boasts of the 2-year-old trotting mark of 2:04. He is the only trotter that has shaded two minutes as a 3-year-old, whizzing in 1:59 1/4 in 1924. He also holds the record for the fastest two-heat race by a stallion, 2:02 1/4, and the fastest heat by a 3-year-old in a race, 2:02.

Sumatra holds the record for 3-year-old trotting fillies, 2:02 1/4, gained in a winning heat in the $25,000 Geers Memorial at Toledo in 1925 and in addition is a winner of the Rainy Day

Sweepstakes, richest juvenile classic on the Grand Circuit that annually features the program at North Randall. Lee Worthy, now dead, was a star in the free-for-all trots following a sparkling record in the futurity. Isola's Worthy last season annexed the rich Hambletonian stake, the Kentucky Derby of the harness turf and worth more than the Blue Grass fixture, and the historic Kentucky Futurity at Lexington, concluding the season's largest money winning trotter on the big time. Marvin Childs drove her in these engagements, but it was White that developed her at Orlando.

Ruth M. Chenault, a 2-year-old, completed the 1926 season undefeated and won more money than any other juvenile in history, among her triumphs also being the Rainy Day and the May Day Stake at the famous Lexington trots and the Wet Weather at the New York State Fair, Syracuse.

Sep Palin, too, is at Orlando, Fla. He has some good material, including several likely 2-year-old trotters by The Senator, 2:03 1/2. Last year, Palin gave the half-mile track 2-year-old trotting champion, The Virginia Senator, 2:07 3/4, his first lessons there.

Tommy Berry Keeps Busy at Macon. TOMMY BERRY is busying himself with the Hanover Shoe Farms horses at Macon, Ga. Most of his pupils are by that famous futurity sire, Dillon Axworthy, 2:10 1/4, premier at the Hanover establishment at Hanover, Pa. The new trotting champion, Guy McKiney, also is in quarters at Macon.

Will Dickerson has the horses of E. Roland Harriman of New York, one of the most enthusiastic patrons of light harness racing, at Fayette, N. C. Among others, he will develop several 2-year-old trotters by Photo Watts, 2:02 1/4, the stallion owned by Harriman.

Will Rosemire has the Cleveland Pastime stable horses at Thomasville, Ga. In the lot are 2-year-old trotters by Arion Guy, 1:59 1/2, the property of H. K. Devereux, president of the Grand Circuit. Lon McDonald again is quartered at Memphis, Tenn., and others he has in charge, is the 2-year-old futurity star of last year, Spencer, 2:05 1/2, owned and bred by David M. Look of New York and which is an outstanding star for the 1928 three-year-old trotting futurity.

John L. Dodge, who breeds all his racing material, as usual, is at Grovetown, Ga., with another nice crop of young material.

ARMY HOUSING CONDEMNED BY GEN. W. C. RIVERS

Charges Family Has Descended to "Primitive" Stage.

CAPITAL HEARING Many Barracks of Soldiers Called "Fire-traps."

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31.—Army housing conditions in many parts of the country were condemned by Maj. Gen. W. C. Rivers, inspector-general of the army, in testimony before the house appropriations sub-committee on the war department, it was disclosed in hearings made public today.

Family life has descended to the "primitive" stage at Camp Eustis, San Antonio and other posts, he said.

Sneezing? Sniffing? Stop That Head Cold

When you feel a dangerous head cold coming, check it quickly. Take new Musterole Laxative Cold Tablets. The safe, pleasant chocolate coated tablet that usually brings quick relief.

They do not cause griping or head-buzzing. Always keep Musterole Cold Tablets handy. Prepared by makers of famous Musterole used for relieving muscular pains and chest colds. All Druggists, 35c.

The Musterole Company, Cleveland, O.

At Governor's Island, New York, galvanized iron and left-over rough lumber at Camp Dix have been used to patch up homes to protect officers' families from cold and rain.

Many posts where soldiers are housed in old, wooden houses and barracks were described as fire-traps.

"Temporary shacks are in bad shape at some places," said Gen. Rivers. "I was two weeks ago in San Antonio. There are a good many officers of the field rank and a great many captains and lieutenants who are living in makeshift houses, made from cuttings up of old barracks, and they are in pretty bad shape."

Twenty officers recently lost all their family possessions in a fire at Fort Riley, Kansas, and there have been three fires at Governor's Island, he said.

Congress has appropriated $13,182,000 for new buildings and $7,115,000 more has been recommended by the budget bureau.

With completion of this program, 7,000 officers and non-commissioned officers and 29,000 enlisted men will still be without permanent housing.

Maj. Gen. Charles P. Summerall, chief of staff, told the committee.

Ceramics Win At Pittsburgh

The East Liverpool Ceramics last night defeated the St. Joseph's Lyceum quint at Pittsburgh, 26 to 24.

Staley starred for the Pottery with 11 points, including four two-pointers from scrimmage and three single markers from the charity line.

Burke's game at guard for the Ceramics was outstanding all the way.

The most difficult part of the game was played at the scorers' bench when Captain Celisgowski of the losers reported in the names of Luwesloceril, Och, Muserlanovitch and Ravenelraki and others. If scorer Wildblood made an error or two they can be condoned in this case.

Ankrin, Staley's mate at forward, turned in four field goals; Bailey, at center, collected one field goal and a pair of fouls; Burke scored once on the free line and Wilson dropped in a field goal.

And as for Sessig—oh, well.
